

DANA Membership Application (Organisations)

The Disability Advocacy Network Australia (DANA) Limited is a company limited by guarantee that has been established for the purpose of strengthening and supporting disability advocacy organisations across Australia to advocate for and with people with disabilities so that they are valued and included members of the community, their fundamental needs are met, and their human rights respected.

Eligibility for Membership

Organisations may be a Member of DANA if they:

- are an independent advocacy organisation
- have objectives, purposes, and a mission consistent with those of DANA

Organisations may be an Associate Member of DANA if they:

- are supportive of the purposes of DANA

Process for organisations wishing to become a member of DANA:

- Complete Membership Application Form
- Send (via mail/email) to DANA with:
 - a copy of your organisation's most recent Annual Report
 - a copy of the objects/purposes clause of your organisation's Constitution/Rules
- The DANA Board's Membership Committee will meet to discuss membership applications
- DANA will then let applicants know the Membership Committee's decision and invoice your organisation

On payment of the membership fee, Members and Associate Members are eligible to:

- receive DANA Members' newsletters and updates
- contribute through online surveys etc to the development of DANA policy positions
- participate in DANA webinars and network meetings
- attend and be heard at any DANA general meeting
(Please note: Associate Members are not eligible to participate in the management of DANA or to vote on resolutions at general meetings.)
- Access DANA social media platforms

Membership/ Associate Membership Fee 2022-23 (Fees are the same for either category)

The membership fee is determined by the level of funding received by an organisation.

- The relevant funding level applies to the year preceding the 2022-23 financial year
- The DANA interpretation of "disability" is not limited by age or disability type
- DANA will ordinarily rely on organisations to decide on the appropriate membership fee category for their organisation. DANA does, however, reserve the right to review the membership category nominated by an organisation in accordance with above criteria and determine that a different category applies
